LIGHT VOTE IS PREDICTED IN STUDENT RACE

Campaign Lacks Heat of Past Contests on Campus

WORKERS SOLICIT VOTES

Mass Meetings Will Be Held Tomorrow Night

A light vote is expected in the student election to be held Friday at the University. In strong contrast to the elections of previous years, less enthusiasm is being shown among the students this year, leaders say. There are fewer posters, hand bills, and signs on automobiles, and less general campaign literature this year than usual, according to campaign managers.

The campaigning of the candidates opened officially following the filing of petitions April 8. Only recently has there been a showing of sufficient campaigning publicity to inform the students of the election Friday.

Neither of the candidates for the student body presidency, Glenn Degner and A. K. Lee, has opened campaign headquarters. J. L. Reading, vice-presidential candidate, has opened a campaign headquarters at the Missouri Theater Building on Ninth Street. He is opposed by Frank Cotty.

Greatest active interest is being taken in the secretary-treasurer race between Virginia Nellis and Sue Wass. The former candidate's headquarters are located in the building at Maryland Street and Conley Avenue. The latter's headquarters are located in Pemberton Hall at Missouri and Conley avenues.

During the past few days the councilman-at-large race has sprung into action. Three of the four candidates, Charles Prettyman, Charles Hughes, Milton Poehmann, and Harner Selvidge, will be elected Friday.

The majority of candidates to be elected by a vote of the entire student body, has been done through the personal solicitation of votes by workers. Campaign talks have taken the form of a series at large student eating centers.

Campaigning for the office of councilman from the various schools has been confined entirely to the students of the respective schools.

The bulk of campaigning will be thrown into the night before the elections when a presidential mass meeting will be held followed by serenaders. Glenn Degner's mass meeting will be held on the south steps of Jesse Hall at 7:30 o'clock. The place of meeting for A. K. Lee's mass meeting had not been determined today.

Tonight and tomorrow night many organizations will be entertained by serenaders who will conclude their programs with a shout for their chosen candidates.

ICE CREAM MEN DISCUSS SERVICE

Improvements in Quality and Cost of Product Suggested

The regular meeting of the local section of the Missouri Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers, held yesterday at the Tiger Hotel, took the form of a general discussion by the members of factors which will improve the quality of ice cream, decrease the costs of manufacturing, and improve the service of the ice cream plants.

Dot Sappington of the Central Dairy Co. is chairman of this section, presided over the meeting. J. Houser of the White Eagle Dairy acted as secretary.

Members of several other sections were present, including J. R. Fenner of St. Joseph, president of the state organization.

Because of the great amount of work occupying the manufacturers' time in the summer season, it was decided that another meeting should not be held before next fall.

DECORATION WORK CONTRACT GIVEN

Methodist Auditorium to Be Finished in Symbolic Patterns

The contract for the decoration of the main auditorium of the new Methodist Church was awarded from three bids last night to the Will H. Peters Decorating Company of Chicago by the building committee of the Methodist Foundation. No time was set for completion in the contract, but it is expected to be finished by June 1.

Mr. Peters completed the plans for the decoration with H. N. Haines, supervising architect, this morning and left for Chicago. He will return to Columbia Monday and work will be started immediately. The decorators will use the scaffolding used in constructing the auditorium. According to the plans agreed upon in the contract the auditorium will be finished in symbolic patterns, in red, gold, and blue. The walls are to be painted in oil with stenciled patterns at the frieze and the top of the dado.

The contract includes the decoration of the main auditorium only. The remainder of the building has been tinted in cream and gray.

The Weather

For Columbia and vicinity: Generally fair tonight and Thursday; moderate temperature.

For Missouri: Probably fair tonight and Thursday; slightly warmer Thursday west portion.

Weather conditions: The outstanding weather feature of the last two days has been a severe storm that is pushing its way northwest along the Atlantic seaboard. At 7 a. m. this morning it was centered just off New York, barometric pressure 29.06 inches. Its influence reaches from Hatteras to New England and westward in the interior to Pittsburgh. In all the remainder of the country westward to and across the Rockies to the Pacific, fair skies have been the rule. Temperatures continue around the seasonable to a few degrees cooler in most latitudes. There is no freezing south of the Canadian border.

The highest temperature recorded in Columbia yesterday was 60 and the lowest last night was 44.

PLANS MADE FOR SCOUT TRAINING

Leadership Course to Begin Monday—to Last for 12 Sessions

"Scouting Objectives and Program" will be the subject of the address on Monday evening, April 22, by Dr. A. W. Nelson, of Booneville, at the opening of the course in boy leadership, which is to be offered by the local Scout organization. Dr. Nelson, who has made a study of the scouting program, is chairman of the Booneville district. Special reference is to be made in his address to the Scout leader's responsibility, and to the place which scouting holds in the community life.

The course in leadership, which will be held for twelve evenings, is open to all men of the community who are interested in boys. The course will be conducted largely as a Scout troop is conducted, there being held all the Scout activities and games. This is done in order to instruct the men in modern scouting, which men of the previous generation had no opportunity to learn.

Nine of the sessions will be held in Jefferson Junior High School, while at least three will be held at the W. J. Hietzer Scout Cabin. It is possible that changes will be made in time and place of meeting to meet the convenience of those enrolled in the course. The regular schedule calls for a meeting each Monday and Wednesday evening at 7:15 o'clock until the twelve sessions are completed. Each session will last approximately two hours.

Sixteen boys were enrolled in the course. The training committee which has planned the course and which will be in charge of all sessions is headed by Prof. M. F. Miller as chairman, who is assisted by Prof. E. A. Trowbridge, John Platt, Dr. R. H. Hill, W. I. Oliver, E. A. Barnard, Isadore Barth, and C. E. German.

A fee of $2 is being charged for materials and books which will be distributed to men taking the course. A bulletin is being mailed from the Scout office today to all prospective applicants for the course. A number of business and professional men have already signed up for the course, according to local Scout executives. Persons who wish to enroll have been requested to apply to members of the committee, or to the local Scout headquarters.

Sixteen boys were formally inducted into the Boy Scout organization in a meeting held at the Douglass School last evening. Pins were presented. Prof. J. B. Coleman was chairman of the meeting. The prospective candidate conducted a color ceremony and Dr. Nelson explained the history of the flag and the meaning of the Scout badge. A candle lighting service was held, with twelve boys explaining the meaning of the twelve points of the Scout law.

Mayor W. J. Hietzer, who was present, spoke briefly to the audience and Scout Executive A. J. Gillette awarded the pins.

TERRIFIC STORM HITS EAST COAST

Two Die, Five Craft Sink as 78-Mile Gale Rages

NEW YORK, April 17 (U.P.)—A terrific storm which lashed the entire eastern seaboard has left flood threats, snow-blocked roads, and thousands of dollars' damage to shipping.

Two deaths were attributed directly to the storm. The body of a sailor was washed ashore near New Jersey and a man was killed in Connecticut.

Shipping suffered. Five craft were sunk in New York harbor as a gale of seventy-eight miles an hour battered the shore line. The tugs Tisdale, Fred E. Hasler, Teddy Burke, and Perth Amboy, and the barge Montana, most of them carrying valuable cargo, were sunk. All crews were rescued.

A seventy-mile gale struck Cape Cod and two craft went on the rocks. The barkentine schooner Echo, owned by Fred E. Hasler, of New York, and the steamer West Hike was in danger with a broken rudder but was saved.

Trans-Atlantic steamers were delayed in arriving, a number being held at quarantine off New York harbor. Several coast-off vessels were held in the harbor at Boston.

MAY ADD PLAN OF DEBENTURE TO FARM BILL

Senate Committee Expected to Offer It as Amendment

OPPOSITION IS SLIGHT

Survey of Agricultural Group Shows Many Favor Proposal

WASHINGTON, April 17 (U.P.)—An informal survey of the Senate Agricultural Committee today revealed only three or four of the fifteen members inclined to vote against the proposed far-reaching debenture plan of farm relief as an amendment to the administration's co-operative marketing bill.

This overwhelming sentiment for the plan which President Hoover did not mention in his farm message, was holding a brief session, particularly to permit Chairman Snell of the rules committee to prepare the way for consideration of the House co-operative marketing bill there tomorrow.

Snell's rule was adopted without objection. The Senate committee called off its scheduled meeting, because Chairman McNary was busy with senatorial matters, and leaders were in no haste for a final committee vote on the bill.

McNary will introduce the bill at a short session of the Senate tomorrow and the Senate will then adjourn until Monday, so the committee will have until Saturday to prepare it for Senate action.

Snell went to the White House today to tell President Hoover of plans for consideration of the administration bill. Afterward he said the Senate could not adopt the debenture plan because it is a revenue-raising measure and therefore must originate in the House. McNary took no stock in this argument, pointing out that the government would not raise any money from the measure. Other Senate leaders who are planning to go ahead with the debenture amendment endorsed his plan.

The Senate will meet in session today to permit Representative Reid, Republican, Illinois, to introduce a resolution proposing an investigation of the Federal Reserve Board policy toward Wall Street credit. House leaders are not dissatisfied with such an investigation, the measure faces strong opposition. Representative Loring Black, Democrat, New York, made a House speech charging the Federal Reserve Board has exceeded its jurisdiction over credit control.

The House met today to make its administration farm bill the unfinished business and the Senate was in recess while its agriculture committee continued a fight over the far-reaching debenture plan.

Disappointment Over Hoover's Stand. Publicly disappointed at President Hoover's farm views expressed in his message, some Republican members of the Senate committee were reported to be preparing to tack on the debenture or tariff bounty scheme as an amendment to the administration measure. They said Mr. Hoover had not mentioned the plan in his message, that two of the experts of the Agricultural Department have testified it was successful in Germany and Norway, and that the expected repudiation of the plan from Secretary of Agriculture Hyde has failed to materialize.

Chairman McNary frankly expressed the opinion the committee was favorable to the plan and would report the administration bill with it included. He expects a vote in the committee before tonight.

Word that the House of Representatives can finish the business of the special session and be ready for adjournment in thirty days, was brought to the White House today by Representative Snell, chairman of the Rules Committee.

AIRPORT LIGHTING TO TAKE 2 WEEKS

Actual Work Will Start Monday or Tuesday, Says Eggleston

Work on the lighting of the local airport will be finished in about two weeks, according to J. D. Eggleston, representative of the Department of Commerce who is supervising the work of lighting the St. Louis-Kansas City air line.

All work at the present time is being concentrated on the fields located at Fulton and Booneville. Mr. Eggleston said, but the contractor expects to move a force of men here the first part of next week and keep them on the job here until the work is finished. Obstruction and boundary lights must be placed and the contractor is working on the cable.

A mile and a quarter of cable has been laid at the field in Booneville in the last few days by the contractor, and the light company of that city has been working on the replacement of some light poles that had to be 12-feet higher for government standard.

It is the plan of the contractor to finish the field in Columbia before any of the other six so that it may be a model.

EXAMINATIONS FOR ANNAPOLIS BEGIN

35 Students of Hall Coaching School Taking Tests

Armed with pens, three to six pencils each, bottles of ink, erasers, and rulers, thirty-five aspirants for entrance to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, who have been students in the U. S. Hall Coaching School, went into battle formation this morning for a three-day grueling examination to determine whether or not they are eligible for Uncle Sam's cradle of the navy.

Facing fourteen hours of examinations, over a three-day period, these students were cheerful and hopeful this morning. "Cramming" for the night before, according to most of them.

Some of them went to a show last night, a few went hiking, several read during the evening, and one admitted that he stayed at home and studied all night.

Whether they could remember the names of their textbooks, the congressional districts in which they lived, and the names of senators and representatives from their states, seemed to worry a few when they were told that on previous examinations such questions had been asked.

"When you fellows get to Annapolis and see what the place is like, write me about it and when I have successfully passed one of these examinations, I'll join you," one student said.

The examination, which is an entrance test for those who have appointments to the academy, will close Friday. The papers will be sent to the Bureau of Navigation to be graded and the returns will be received approximately three weeks later. Those who successfully pass will be admitted to the Naval Academy.

SENATE MUST SLASH BILLS BY $6,000,000

Appropriations Passed by House Exceed Estimates

NO INCREASE IN REVENUE

Malt Tax Is Expected to Be Rejected by Upper Body

JEFFERSON CITY, April 17 (U.P.)—The Senate today faced the big problem of trimming from $4,000,000 to $6,000,000 from the appropriation bills which have been passed by the House.

The bills passed by the House or which will be approved soon, exceed by approximately $6,000,000 the available revenue estimated by the State Tax Commission for 1929-1930. Provision has not been made for any increased revenue during the biennial period and it is safe to predict that no new revenue measures will be enacted. The only one pending proposes a tax of 5 cents a pound on all malt products. This bill has been passed by the House and is now pending in the Senate, where it will probably meet defeat. It was estimated this bill would produce from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 annually.

The Tax Commission estimated $16,077,698 would be available for the general revenue fund during the two-year period. The bills passed by the House appropriate a total of $21,928,593. The Senate will be unable to trim the bills sufficiently to keep them within the estimated revenue and the problem will finally be up to Gov. Henry S. Caulfield.

Two years ago the general revenue was over-appropriated almost $5,000,000 and four years ago approximately $8,000,000. Former Gov. Baker vetoed many items and held up others to keep the expenditures within the estimated revenue.

The totals carried in the appropriation measures run as follows: Expenses of assessing and collecting the revenue, $850,000. Civil salary bill, $1,433,000. Eleemosynary institutions bill, $1,206,210. Contingent fund bill, $45,000. General contingent fund bill, $7,315,150. Miscellaneous institutions bill, $7,324,983.

Penal institutions bill, $1,896,900. To meet the expenses of the session of the General Assembly, $600,000.

BROOKS CONFERS WITH CAULFIELD

M. U. Head Opposes Including University in Purchasing Plan

President Stratton D. Brooks of the University yesterday conferred with Gov. Caulfield and expressed his disapproval of the provisions of the Casey Central Purchasing Bill which would place all purchasing for the University in the hands of a purchasing agent created by the bill. The Casey Bill was recently engrossed by the Senate.

Before his conference with the governor yesterday, Dr. Brooks said that the University cannot be legally affected by the bill since the University is controlled by the Board of Curators, a constitutional body created by the constitution. In Dr. Brooks' opinion, the University should not be included under the provisions of the Casey bill.

"I have had experience with the central purchasing system and it does not work satisfactorily so far as educational institutions are concerned," Dr. Brooks is quoted as saying in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"There are supplies of technical character which a university must have which could not be purchased satisfactorily under a central purchasing system."

Before the Senate engrossed the purchasing bill, an amendment was proposed which would have exempted educational institutions from the provisions of the bill. However, the amendment was defeated. This exemption is expected, if the House should pass the bill.
